

A Symphony of Dance!

Play me my symphony and I'll be sure to dance,
Through the realms of visions where I can take my chance!
It's like the opening of a window where the words rush in,
A woven web of wonderment – so let the game begin!
There is a coat of many colours and it's wearing by the day,
A one size fits all policy that stumbles along its way!
The meander lines of indecision can tell a story to behold,
Of the calling and its understanding and how it's taking hold!

There is symmetry in unspoken secrets that smoulders from within,
There's a flow of natural harmony you can't help but breathe it in.
A connection defying time and space it takes you by the hand,
It plays rhythmic tones to coax a melody that was never ever planned!
The taste of energy is intoxicating and we hunger all the more,
You can reach out and touch the anticipation like the waves upon the shore!
There's a heartbeat born to share its pounding with the echoes for a score!
Where two into one meet under the Sun and I'm sure they have before!

By

Mylo Tup